Use the version that fits.

SVG: use on websites and in apps that accept vector artwork.
PNG: transparent background; useful in Google Slides and other slide tools.
PDF: vector artwork for print placement and document workflows.
Use symbol-only for avatars, favicons and narrow spaces.
Use horizontal for website headers; stacked for centred layouts.
Use white artwork on dark backgrounds. White files are transparent.

Everyday font: Arial

Arial Regular for paragraphs, UI, charts and captions.
Arial Bold for headings, buttons and emphasis. Use these in both languages.
Arial is widely available, but no font is installed on every device.
Website fallback: Arial, Helvetica Neue, Helvetica, sans-serif.
For presentations, select Arial in the application font menu.
For final documents, export to PDF to preserve the layout.

The logo does not need a font.

The original English logo was outlined from Nimbus Sans Bold.
The Arabic artwork was outlined from Noto Sans Arabic Regular.
Both are now vector paths. Keep the supplied artwork; do not retype it.
No fonts need to be installed to use any supplied logo file.

Simple rules

Keep clear space of at least one quarter of the symbol width.
Start at 24 px for the symbol or 140 px for the full horizontal logo.
Use navy text on off-white or white; navy also works on terracotta.
Do not stretch, add shadows or use terracotta for small text on white.
